Pervasive Monitoring

Initial excitement followed by the hard work

Not going to be easy – but there are promising directions:

- TLS 1.3 will provide improvements
- HTTP 2.0 may also bring updates in this area
- A lot of hard work in UTA, various working groups, STRINT, and so on

Also, draft-farrell-perpass-attack approved today

IAB/W3C STRINT Workshop
28 Feb – 1 Mar 2014
London, UK

Anti-Harassment Policy

http://www.ietf.org//iesg/statement/ietf-anti-harassment-policy.html

http://tools.ietf.org/html/draft-farresnickel-harassment-01.txt

- IESG statement issued in 2013

  Specifies a policy "IETF participants should not engage in harassment" and a contact point for concerns (ombudsperson)

- Linda Klieforth (ISOC HR) is still acting as a temporary ombudsperson here in London

- Pete Resnick and Adrian Farrell have begun work on a more detailed procedures document

Mailing List Discussion Style

- Inspired by some recent discussions on the list…
- Please treat everyone with respect and professionalism also in e-mail discussions
- Focus on the topic, not the person behind it

Top 10 things to know

Speaking for or about the IETF

- Questions about how the IETF or IAB chairs should speak outside the IETF

- Some similar concerns apply to all of us as document editors, WG chairs

- Many opportunities and needs to talk about the IETF and its work

- Need to be engaged in discussions: operator forums, your local ISOC chapter meeting, industry meeting, IGF, other I* organisation meeting, etc

Speaking for or about the IETF

- Most common case: we talk about past and ongoing work of the IETF, based on facts, RFCs, etc
  - Often in our own words
- We occasionally speak in "our own opinion only" mode – but needs care to avoid misinterpretation
- Please send feedback if we make missteps

Upcoming Challenges

- Deliver on our promise to strengthen the security of the Internet

- Deliver on our promises to complete the big projects that we have ongoing

- Continue efforts to strengthen the role of WGs, keep AD role time commitments in check, etc.

- Continue efforts around diversity

- Interact with the world evolving around us
